Snoeck, 2010. Taschenbuch. Condition: Neu. Neu Neu/sofort versandbereit - auf Lager - inneren, die in uns steckt und ihrer Bausteine: den Weltmolekülen. World measurements The thematic bias of the exhibition and the book is directed to the legendary short film Powers of Ten (1977) by Charles and Ray Eames. The film demonstrates the scales introduced by twentieth century sciences (a total of forty powers of ten, ascending in sequence to 10<sup>24</sup>, then descending all the way to 10<sup>-16</sup> metres), and those with which our universe can be described in terms of the factors of time and space. Forty-two separate camera positions record the spectrum, ranging from the macrocosm (solar system) to the microcosm (inside of a hand). In an analogous way, the reader dives into our world from the outside, from the cosmos, and investigates its natural surface until he realises that man, with his belief in and pursuit of progress changes everything. Narrated here, in several loosely connected and yet independent chapters (world and cosmos, faith and myth, nature and man, urban environment, and existence and finiteness), is a veritable history of our worlds the external world which surrounds us, and the internal world which resides in us, with all its components: world molecules.
