FOR THE DEAD.---DEVIL-HOUSES. 149 time, rum or mimbo is poured for the spii-it s refreshment. Witll this there are also erected, within the house, or on the public road, or by the river s side, what are called Devil-houses, of which Iron Bar s were good specimens. There were three structures of this kind constructed for him; one in the court attached to the house, one outside, and one on the beach adjoining the river. All were similar in their fixings: a scarlet canopy overspread the bamboo roof placed to shelter the table, and over this again was a trio of parasols, two crimson and one blue, of silk material, and white fringe to each; around the table were three large sofas; and at either end of the roof a pendent glass lamp. But the greatest display was on the table. In the centre was...
